“Vidya Bharati in Meghalaya”

Although Vidya Bharati Schools can be found in main cities across India, the majority of the schools are located in remote locations and hard to reach areas where conventional educational institutions have not managed to reach. One such school is Garudachal Vidyapeeth Ampati.

Located in the windswept areas of Garo Hills of Meghalaya, Garudachal Vidyapeeth have been providing education to the children of the local tribal population since 2004.

Vidyapeeth Ampati- Bringing The Light Of Education To Tribal Population Of Meghalaya

In the beautiful but inhospitable environment, the school went through varied struggles since its inception. It started with mere 30 students in a tin building on the slopes of the hill. Due to the strong winds in the area the building often collapsed and had to be rebuilt. It was only recently in 2016 that the school with help from local donations and Governmental aid, was relocated to a better area and a semi pucca building consisting of 6 school rooms was constructed.

Presently the school has 282 students studying from 'Ankur' to class 10. The school has 13 teachers and 1 non teaching staff. Apart from providing good quality education, the school encourages the students to participate in sports, science and cultural events. All the major cultural festivities along with days of national importance are celebrated with enthusiasm. Important workshops on varied topics are an innate part of the curriculum.

Recently the school also organized its first alumni meet which was attended by more than 90 alumni.

While speaking about the school, Sri Ratan Roy (principal) explained that the school requires new classrooms to be constructed in order to incorporate growing numbers of students, as well as requiring better drinking water facilities, toilet blocks and computer labs. But no matter the challenges faced, the school has been able to garner the respect and support of the local people. He feels that the school is as tough as the local tribal population who calls the area their home and will continue to grow from strength to strength no matter the hurdles faced.

The education of a man begins at his birth and continues throughout his life. Being born in a large family with a very humble background, Saurabh Pratap Singh learned from his birth that he will have to cross several hurdles to reach the peak. A Gold Medalist from IIM Ranchi, Fulbright Fellow from Harvard University and an Assistant General Manager at RBI, it was a long and arduous way from his birth place in Ballia, Uttar Pradesh to the United States.

In spite of all the hurdles that life kept hurling at him, Saurabh, an alumnus of Naga Ji Saraswati Vidya Mandir, Maldepur, Ballia, and Uttar Pradesh, never shied away from braving it all. After completing his school, he joined Delhi University and graduated with Economics honors. In 2009 he appeared and cleared CAT where we did not have enough money to even fulfill the basic needs of the family. My father had retired when I was in 6th standard. We have a large family and I am the youngest one, so, by the time it was the turn of my education, there were a lot of financial hurdles”, recalls Saurabh.

But that did not stop Saurabh from

Saurabh Pratap Singh - Crossed Financial Hurdles to Become a Gold Medalist from IIM Ranchi, Fulbright Fellow from Harvard University And Assistant General Manager At RBI

examinations with a 99.65 percentile, ranking among top 100 in India. He joined the IIM Ranchi Campus and completed his MBA with a Gold Medal. Through his campus interview he got selected in the managerial position at Reserve Bank of India in 2012.

It may sound very easy, but Saurabh's family literally had to make ends meet in order to support his education. There was a time when Saurabh did not even have money to pay for the entrance examinations, leave alone any study materials. Joining a coaching centre was a far-fetched dream and he would have to borrow money to get his admission forms.

“I come from a humble background moving ahead. He always gave his education a top priority in spite of limited resources. He considers himself privileged to have reached this far and felt it was time to give back to society. “The place where I come from, people were not aware of IIMs, they were more aware of IITs. Before I got selected in IIM, I had already got selected in three other premium institutions. My father had to borrow money to pay the initial enrollment fee. So when I told my father about my selection in IIM, his immediate response was, 'अब फिर से उधार मांगना पड़ेगा क्या किसी से पैसो के लिए?' (Do I have to borrow money from someone again?) He was not aware of IIM at that time. We did not have any property to mortgage and take loans from the bank. But when I showed my CAT 99.65 percentile marks and my IIM selection

His work was highly appreciated among different quarters. The then Deputy CM of Uttar

In 2018, Saurabh got promoted as Assistant General Manager in RBI and was transferred to Mumbai. He also got selected for the world's most renowned fellowship programme. "Based on the sponsorship of the US government, I had applied and got selected in almost all top universities in the US. Finally I choose Harvard University from where I will be doing a 2 years Masters course in International Development. RBI has sanctioned a 2 years of study leave which will continue till my course completes", shared Saurabh. As for summer projects, he has already started working with the World Bank and Asian Development Bank.

In spite of all his achievements, Saurabh keeps himself grounded and gives the entire credit to his school for coming this far. “We all admire monuments like the Taj Mahal, but we don't see the makers of it. We students are like the Monuments, the Taj Mahal. The teachers are the architects of such monuments. This is how I feel when I think about the teachers of my school. You can consider my journey – a boy from Ballia district of Uttar Pradesh, with a village background, with no resources at all, is now studying in the world's best university. This journey itself – I attribute everything from building my foundation to inculcating self-confidence to my school. And it is not just because of education. Education is not the only factor of this achievement. What also matters is the behavioral part, the discipline, the leadership – if these values are inculcated from a very early childhood, then we can do wonders with our lives”, mentions Saurabh with a smile.

25 Year Old, Vidya Bharati Alumni, Nandini Pawar, Working For Women Empowerment And Social Change

Nandini Pawar, an alumna of Saraswati Shishu Mandir Kalyanganj, Khandwa, proves that age is never a barrier. She is only 25 years old and is passionately working in the field of Women Empowerment and Child Education to her best capacity.

She completed her B.Com degree and then pursued a Master's Degree in Social Work. During her Master's she has worked with several NGOs mostly in the field of Child Education. These experiences broadened her scope and opened her eyes to various social issues that women face.

“I have worked with many NGOs over the years, but the one I have worked with longest is Navya Jan Kalyan Samiti in Barwaha”, mentioned Nandini. There is a leprosy centre and a residential school for orphan children or children whose parents are beggars, rag pickers, daily wage earners or in jail. Nandini works with this centre voluntarily, where she takes care of patients suffering from leprosy by providing them food and care. She also manages the child centre through various skill development activities for children apart from educational support.

“ There are many children here in the centre who were earlier into drugs. We rescue such children and bring them here to give them a better life. It is very challenging to manage such children”, Nandini mentioned. A lot of her time is devoted for counseling the children and their parents.

In Indore, Nandini has also been working with an NGO called Samaan Society aimed at women empowerment through skill development. The three projects which run under the organization are:

1. Women on Wheels: Driving training is provided to women above 45 years of age. They are also supported to get driving jobs. Many women who learned driving from this institute are now working as waste collection drivers of the government.

2. Women Mechanic: Women are provided training to repair two wheelers. They are also trained to ride two wheelers so that they can offer their service on call. A car repairing garage has also been opened for these women, which is currently run by women entirely.

3. Women Mental Health Support: Counseling is offered to women to become financially independent and manage home. Many women are victims of domestic violence who also receive mental support from here.

Nandini is an inspiration for many women in the society. She shows the way to overcome all hurdles of life and create a promising future.
